NEW DRAMA

Thursday, Sky Atlantic HD, 9pm

David Morrissey, Kelly Reilly and Mackenzie Crook star in an epic tale of Roman invasion and tribal rivalries Smoke billows from a hilltop fortress in the Czech Republic countryside. In the distance, TV&Satellite Week spies actor David Morrissey in full Roman soldier regalia charging through a mud-soaked field.

We're just outside Prague watching filming on Sky Atlantic's bloody and battle-filled nine-part drama Britannia, which follows Roman general Aulus Plautius (Morrissey) as he attempts to divide, crush and conquer the heart of Celtic Britain in the year 43AD.

But with fearless warrior women and mystical Druids governing these dangerous lands, Aulus must carefully negotiate his path to power.

RIVAL TRIBES

'This is the second Roman invasion of Britain after Julius Caesar's expeditions,' says Morrissey during a break from filming, 'and unlike most gung-ho generals who want to create war, Aulus is more diplomatic and willing to listen.

'He does have the brutality of his time and has no compunction about killing people, but he believes the best way to conquer and to have longevity is to embrace some of the cultures that already exist in Britannia.

'He's especially interested in the Druids, who are led by the mysterious Veran [Mackenzie Crook], and he soon becomes obsessed with them.'

Aulus' invasion is made all the easier by rival Celtic tribes called the Cantii and the Regni, who are mercilessly killing each other in a bitter, violent feud.

But facing Roman aggression, will Cantii warrior princess Kerra (Kelly Reilly) and the Regni's Queen Antedia (Zoë Wanamaker) unite against the invaders?

'Kerra is the daughter of the King of the Cantii,' says Reilly. 'She's fearless and speaks her mind, which gets her into trouble. But while she hates the power-hungry Druids, Kerra's real archrival is Queen Antedia.

'The female characters are brilliantly written. They're fierce, witty and they hold all the power.'

IMAGINATIVE LEAP

For Wanamaker, one of the most enjoyable parts of filming was her transformation into Antedia.

'We have no knowledge of what they actually wore, so it was an imaginative leap for the whole thing and that's why it's exciting,' she says. 'We've just improvised a lot and that's been fun in itself.'

As well as the Czech Republic, Britannia was filmed on location in Wales, and the big-budget production included hundreds of extras for the brutal battle scenes.

'There's no green screen,' says Morrissey. 'So seeing the massive Roman camp, with a real army, for the first time was incredible.'

To prepare for the highly realistic battle scenes, Reilly attended sword boot camp for six weeks.

'I've never done anything like it,' she says. 'I also do a lot of riding. In one scene, I fought off five people on horseback with swords and everything. I was sore for about four days afterwards but it was fun.'

With its swords, sorcery and big-scale sets – complete with Celtic palaces – Britannia has already drawn comparisons with Game of Thrones.

'It has the mud and dirt of Game of Thrones, but there are no dragons,' Morrissey explains. 'This show is rooted in history, certainly in the Celts and Druids and their belief systems. It's about our land, and that's what I love about it.'

• All nine episodes are available On Demand from Thursday 18 January

CROOK'S NEW LOOK

Mackenzie Crook on playing the Druids' mysterious leader, Veran

Mackenzie Crook

Who is Veran? He's the all-powerful leader of the Druids, but he sees a dark cloud on the horizon and senses everything could be about to collapse around him...

You're unrecognisable as Veran . How long did the transformation take? Roughly five hours in the make-up chair, but I loved seeing myself slowly change in front of the mirror.

What did you know about Druids before the show? They were very mysterious because very little was written about them. But that was a gift for writer Jez Butterworth because he could do what he wanted.

How was it filming on such big-scale sets? A lot of thought went into creating this incredible world. They even built me my own Stonehenge!

Melvyn's memories

Presenter Melvyn Bragg celebrates 40 years of The South Bank Show

Melvyn revived the show in 2012

NEW ARTS

The South Bank Show 40th Anniversary Special

Sunday, Sky Arts HD, 9pm

Francis Bacon got tipsy, John Cleese suggested swapping places with his mother... As presenter of The South Bank Show, Melvyn Bragg has had plenty of revealing encounters with the world's greatest artists and performers.

This week, to celebrate 40 years since the popular arts series first aired on 14 January 1978, Bragg has delved into the archives for some of its most memorable moments, and meets some of the show's biggest fans – from Damon Albarn to Tracey Emin.

We asked the 78-year-old to talk us through the show's highlights...

MY FIRST INTERVIEW

I picked Paul McCartney because I wanted to overthrow the hierarchy of arts in this country, where whatever was on at the opera house was good, and whatever was on a pop show was okay but not of lasting value. McCartney's significance has soared in the last 40 years. I think we've been proved right.

MY MOST UNUSUAL INTERVIEW

The interview with artist Francis Bacon started with champagne at 9am, and by the end of it we were slaughtered, both of us. He was saying things he'd never revealed before. I said, 'I think I'm going to show this. What do you think?' And he said, 'Do what you like, darling.'

MY MOST IMPORTANT SHOW

I once commissioned composer Howard Goodall to make a film about young people in schools getting access to playing music. We got the film to Tony Blair, who thought it was terrific. A few years later, 98 per cent of primary schools were doing music or choirs.

Melvyn spoke to John Cleese in 1986

Alec Guinness with Melvyn in 1985

MY STRANGEST SUBJECT

Alec Guinness. He was very masked, and had lots of hidden things about him. I thought he was rather spooky.

MY BIGGEST REGRET

I did an interview with John Cleese where he said, 'Why don't you talk to my mother? She knows more about me than I know about myself. I can get hold of her – she's in the kitchen.' I wish I'd said yes. It could have been quite interesting.

Fight for survival

Agyness Deyn on her all-action TV debut as a cop in Hard Sun

DRAMA
Hard Sun
Saturday, BBC1, 9.35pm

Fashion model Agyness Deyn was thrown in the deep end when she made her TV debut in Hard Sun last week, as enigmatic London cop DI Elaine Renko.

Within the first few minutes, Renko had been attacked in her home and left for dead by her son Daniel, who doused his mother in petrol and flicked a lit match through the letterbox as he left.

By the end of the episode, Renko had also survived a car crash, been chased by MI5 agents trying to kill her, and taken on new partner DCI Charlie Hicks (Jim Sturgess) in a vicious fist fight on the banks of the Thames.

Oh, and along the way, she found out that the world was going to end in five years' time…

This week, Renko attempts to get the news of the extinction-level event into the media, and gets a taste of the chaos that could ensue when the story breaks.

We caught up with Agyness Deyn to find out more…

Renko is an unusual character – what was your first impression of her? When I got the script and, on page three, there was that fight with her son Daniel, I thought, 'Who is this woman?' She's just so enigmatic, strong-willed and strange – and a bit on the autistic spectrum. It's really refreshing to play a woman who isn't sexualised.

How would you describe her? Renko is an island, an introvert. With Hicks, she has had to relate to the world from somebody else's point of view, which opens her up to have more humanity.

What's her relationship with Hicks like? At the start they were so different, like two aliens from different planets. There is also more complicated stuff going on underneath about why Renko became Hicks's new partner.

How is she coping with the revelation that the world is going to end? She has a realistic view of the danger of having this information, because the only other two people who knew about it – apart from MI5 – died. Like Hicks, her impetus is to carry on with her life, and protect herself and her family. But they have massively different perspectives on how to do that.

As a model, what do you think of Renko's look? It's a no-fuss look – monk-like. I think her daily beauty routine is putting her head under the tap and just splashing some water on her face!

Renko is in another brutal fight this week. How did you prepare for the action scenes? I did more fight training than Jim because they were worried that I couldn't throw a punch! But the fights are like street fights, which in some ways you can't really train for.

Did you do your own stunts? I did, and I was so bruised. When I was driving, the stunt guys said to me, 'You're not on your driving test!' So I was like, 'Okay, I'll go faster!'

Renko and Hicks are facing the end of the world

There's no let-up in the action for Renko

'Renko is just so enigmatic, strong-willed and strange'
AGYNESS DEYN

MY IDEAL INTERVIEW
I'd love to have done something with blues singer Big Bill Broonzy [who died in 1958]. My parents gave me a gramophone when I was 21. First chance I got, I bought a record of his. I don't think he'd have said much, but what he would have said would've been terrific.

MY FAVOURITE PARODY
There was a wonderful line at the end of one Spitting Image episode. It went, 'And now The South Bank Show. Please do not forget to turn off your sets.' I found that funny.

MY PROUDEST ACHIEVEMENT
To have kept the show going. We were met with a storm of abuse from various critics at first, who just didn't know what we were doing. This was a major arts programme and I think ITV had expected me to start with the Royal Ballet.

Juliet Rylance and James Norton as Rebecca and Alex

Stand by your

As the action heats up in McMafia, will it mean the end of Alex and Rebecca's romance? We asked Juliet Rylance...

DRAMA

McMafia

Sunday, BBC1 HD, 9pm

There's certainly been no shortage of tension and drama in BBC1 thriller McMafia. So far, we've seen James Norton's upstanding banker, Alex, thrown into a vortex of corruption and despair in a bid to keep his hedge fund afloat.

Meanwhile, his girlfriend Rebecca (played by Juliet Rylance, the stepdaughter of the award-winning Mark Rylance), has been clueless to the treacherous game he's playing, even naively holidaying in the South of France with one of his dangerous new associates.

This week, her suspicions are finally roused as she discovers Alex is hiding a secret phone. As the story unfolds, Rebecca will find her loyalties are tested. Should she allow her strong moral code to be eroded to protect the man she loves?

'Rebecca isn't very corruptible, but it's a big thing that women go through in particular – how much do you put your own values on the back burner to support your partner?' questions Rylance.

MAKING SACRIFICES

'Their life is largely based on their value system, ethical banking and doing things the right way. As Alex is tested, so are his values and the fabric of Rebecca's life is under threat. She's unwittingly drawn in and the question is, how much do you sacrifice what you believe in for the sake of your relationship? Should she put herself first?'

Will Alex's dealings with his corrupt family come between the pair?

The BBC series shines a spotlight on a criminal underworld of human trafficking and money laundering, exposing how dodgy deals make millions at the expense of people you'll never meet, halfway around the world. Rylance admits the filming process challenged her perceptions of how society works.

'It's a very timely drama. In terms of all the cyber-terrorism and politics going on, it mirrors the world we live in,' she reflects. 'Talking to Misha Glenny, who wrote the book the series is based on, and hearing all these incredible stories, it has been mind-blowing.'

Rylance has been so deeply moved, she has changed her lifestyle to try to distance herself from this kind of corruption.

'The experience of filming made me leave my bank for a green bank. It's made me more aware financially and made me question my ethical footprint,' she reveals.

'It's things like which energy provider are we using? What kind man?

of takeaway food are we getting? Those questions are becoming more normal now because we've been living in this corrupt banking society for such a long time.'

Rylance has also loved working on such an international project. 'I'm interested to see how each country responds to our take on their society,' she tells us.

'As Alex is tested, so are his values and the fabric of Rebecca's life is under threat'
JULIET RYLANCE

'I think our director has been clever in casting as many Russian actors as possible, so we're getting a real take on those cultures and the interaction of different cities.

'It was also just incredible being on set with actors from around the world, witnessing different acting techniques.'

And Rylance only has glowing reviews of her co-star, Norton. 'He's a lovely man and I sincerely mean that. I'd never met him before. He's confident, but not in an arrogant way and he has a fantastic work ethic. He's lovely to everyone, never lets you feel left out and he's a great actor – a joy to be around.'

CORONATION STREET

Anna's on trial – will the truth come out?

» Anna's in court, accused of pushing young Seb off his ladder, and with Phelan on a mission to get her sent down, she probably feels like there's more chance of Norris Cole becoming a Chippendale than there is of her proving her innocence.

Earlier, the former café worker persuades Eileen to visit her in prison, and warns her neighbour that her husband is a wrong'un. Eileen's rattled, but she's soon back on Team Pat.

Anna reports the news to Gary, who knows the only way to save his mum is to find Seb and persuade him to tell the truth – that his fall was an accident and Phelan has framed Anna.

After a tip-off from Nicola, Gary tracks down the lad, who reveals that Phelan killed Luke and he fears he could be next. Gary reports Phelan to the police, then locks Seb in Tim's cab, and begs him to testify. Will Seb agree to save Anna's skin?

May (Monica Dolan, second left) is more than she seems in the new episode

Good move

Monica Dolan lands her dream role on Inside No.9's most ambitious episode so far

NEW COMEDY
Inside No.9
Tuesday, BBC2 HD, 10pm

The latest episode of Inside No.9, from the inventive minds of Reece Shearsmith and Steve Pemberton, is so bamboozling even the actors find it difficult to explain.

'I'm really conscious of not spoiling it,' says guest star Monica Dolan, recently seen in hit BBC comedy W1A. 'Let's just say my character is not what she seems. What's wonderful about the episode is the twist in the way the story is told. It will all make sense in the last 10 minutes.'

Ostensibly, it's a tale about moving house, as a removals man turns up at an appointment. But when Dolan's character, May, opens the door, she seems anxious, unprepared and confused – not the kind of person who's waiting to load boxes on to a van.

Even more puzzling, she doesn't seem to know the other people in the house, not even the man who thinks he's Andrew Lloyd Webber.

GETTING INVOLED

As the story unfolds, however, all eventually becomes clear.

'The script is structured very carefully: it's a story Reece and Steve have been thinking of doing since they wrote series one,' says Dolan. 'There were plenty of discussions about the logistics and how to do it when we were filming.'

Dolan, 48, who won a Bafta for playing serial killer Rose West in ITV's Appropriate Adult, has long been keen to bag a role in Inside No.9.

'I first watched the series when I was doing a really difficult play. It was taking so much out of me. Thank goodness this show was on BBC iPlayer when I got home, so I would put it on to unwind,' she says.

'I'm really good friends with Rufus Jones, who is in W1A with me, and he was in a play with Steve Pemberton, so I went for drinks with them one night. Steve said to me, "Oh, it's a shame you're not available to do Inside No.9," and I said, "What do you mean? I am definitely available!" I really jumped on it.'

The experience of shooting the episode, which also features Emilia Fox, certainly didn't disappoint.

'I knew the script would be good but I was crying with laughter during filming,' she recalls.

'I had to email Reece and Steve to thank them for having me, but also to apologise in case there was too much naughty stuff from me. They sent me back a photo of me in stitches and Reece standing next to me looking completely calm.

Jane Fonda and Lily Tomlin return as best buddies Grace and Frankie – with special guest Lisa Kudrow

Lisa Kudrow joins the cast as Grace's manicurist Sheree

NEW COMEDY

Grace and Frankie

From Friday, Netflix

Jane Fonda and Lily Tomlin, who co-starred in the hit film 9 to 5 nearly 40 years ago, have had something of a renaissance in their later years – and a lot of it is thanks to the Netflix comedy Grace and Frankie.

The pair have both earned Emmy nominations for playing the unlikely friends who were thrown together after Grace's husband, Robert (Martin Sheen), and Frankie's husband, Sol (Sam Waterston), revealed they had been having a secret affair for 20 years.

But as the fourth series starts streaming on Friday, Grace and Frankie certainly aren't dwelling on the past.

'It took a couple of seasons for Grace and Frankie to fully recover from the shock,' says Fonda, who plays Grace. 'But they don't think much about it anymore. They've had flings with other interesting men, and they're taking charge.'

Frankie and Grace

So much so, that in the last series, retired cosmetics mogul Grace and hippie art teacher Frankie prepared to conquer the business world with their new invention – a vibrator for the older woman – only for their ambitious plans to be derailed when a large company ripped off their idea.

Meanwhile, Frankie was contemplating moving out of the beach house she shared with Grace in San Diego to relocate to New Mexico with the new man in her life, Jacob (Ernie Hudson).

NEW GIRL ON THE SCENE

However, when the new 13-part season begins, there is another fly in the ointment, this time in the shape of Grace's manicurist Sheree, played by former Friends star Lisa Kudrow, whose apparent closeness to Grace seriously irks Frankie and soon becomes a bone of contention between the women.

Although Grace and Frankie's friendship is at the heart of the show, the comedy also focuses on Grace's daughters, Brianna (June Diane Raphael) and Mallory (Brooklyn Decker), who are both experiencing turbulent love lives.

Elsewhere, Frankie's son, Bud (Baron Vaughn), who now runs his father and Robert's old law firm, is

A detective mother clashes with her drug-dealing son in a Swedish drama

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Before We Die

Tuesday, Channel 4 HD, 11pm

A new Scandinavian cop arrives on our televisions this week when Channel 4 screens its latest intriguing Swedish crime drama, Before We Die.

The dark, subtitled, 10-part series follows Stockholm police officer Hanna Svensson (Marie Richardson), who we first meet arresting her own son, Christian (Adam Pålsson), who is caught selling drugs at a party.

Fast-forward two years, and Hanna is investigating financial crimes and being urged by her bosses to take early retirement. She is also having a relationship with her married colleague, Sven (Johan Hedenberg).

Meanwhile, Christian has just come out of prison and is working as a dishwasher. Wanting nothing to do with his mother, he is taken under the wing of restaurant owner Davor Mimicas (Alexej Manvelov), girls

also facing a life-changing experience, after his girlfriend Allison told him she was pregnant at the end of the last series.

STILL LAUGHING

But dealing with the trials and tribulations of getting older is still a central theme of the show.

'Grace and Frankie are in their seventies,' says showrunner Marta Kauffman. 'Things start to happen in your mid-seventies that you have to deal with. The car starts to break down, so to speak.'

But don't expect double Oscar winner Fonda, who turned 80 in December, or Tomlin, 78, to throw in the towel anytime soon.

'Lily and I are having such a grand time, we feel we can play these characters until we're in adult diapers,' says Fonda. 'But, really, why stop even then?'

who is using the business as a front for drug-running.

'Hanna is a cop with very high morals,' says Richardson (left, with Adam Pålsson and Alexej Manvelov), who also starred in the Tom Cruise movie Eyes Wide Shut. 'She has no qualms about arresting her son.'

CRIMINAL UNDERWORLD

When her lover Sven goes missing, Hanna learns he has been conducting an undercover investigation into criminal biker gangs. In a bid to discover his fate, she contacts his secret inside source – which leads to Hanna and her son, Christian, being thrown together in the most dangerous of circumstances.

'Hanna is exposed to many types of danger,' says the 58-year-old, previously seen in Channel 4's political thriller Blue Eyes. 'She has to juggle both her professional life and her private feelings.'

To prepare for the demanding role, Richardson underwent weeks of police training in order to learn how to handle a gun and get fit for the action scenes.

'There is a lot of running, which isn't something I normally do,' she laughs. 'I was willing to do whatever the producers wanted, though I would have refused to jump into a cold lake in a Swedish winter!'

American horror story

Aurora mass murderer James Holmes

Caren and Tom's son, Alex, was killed in the attack

How mass shootings have brought untold terror to the streets of the US

NEW CRIME

Active Shooter: America Under Fire
Monday, Sky Atlantic HD, 9pm

Caren Teves and her husband, Tom, were on holiday in Maui in 2012 when they received the phone call that every parent dreads. It came from their son Alex's girlfriend, Amanda, who had terrible news.

The young couple had been at a movie and there had been a shooting. Alex had been rushed to hospital, but she didn't know how he was.

Within the next few hours, the Teves family discovered the horrible truth. Alex, 24, and Amanda had been watching The Dark Knight Rises at their local cinema in Aurora, Colorado, when a gunman dressed in bulletproof clothing had opened fire on the audience, killing 12 people and injuring 70 others.

Alex had pulled Amanda down and lay on top of her. He had been killed shielding her from the bullets.

DIED A HERO

'I was confused about what was going on,' recalls Amanda. 'But Alex held me down, covered my head, and said, "Shush, stay down." I wish I could have protected him the way he protected me.'

The Aurora shooting is featured in the first episode of Active Shooter: America Under Fire, an eight-part documentary series that looks at mass shootings in America, including interviews with survivors, victims' families and the emergency services.

Each of the episodes focuses on one of the numerous shootings that have occurred in the US in recent years, including the racist attack on a Charleston church in 2015 that left nine dead, and the Orlando nightclub attack in 2016 that killed 49.

'Every episode explores a range of topics and issues that are sparking the violence,' says producer Aaron Saidman. 'The idea that we've accepted these incidents as a part of American life is tragic.'

> 'The ripple effect from this whole tragedy is just endless'
> CAREN TEVES

In 2015, the Aurora shooter, James Holmes, was sentenced to life in prison without parole, but the pain continues for the Teves family.

'The ripple effect from this whole tragedy is just endless,' says Caren. 'Alex was a great person who could have done so much with his life.'

Appalled by the sensationalistic TV news coverage of the tragedy, Caren and Tom started a campaign called No Notoriety, which asks the media to limit coverage of shooters and the attention that they seek. News reports often focus on body counts and the gunman's motives.

SENSATIONALISM

'We realised that the news is more focused on these horrific people than the victims,' says Caren. 'We're asking journalists to keep the attention on the victims and heroes instead. We are challenging the media to stop acting as PR for the people that perform these heinous acts.'

Ironically, an episode of Active Shooter was pulled in the US when it coincided with the Las Vegas attack last October that killed 58 and injured 546, making it the most deadly shooting in US history.

Afterwards, Caren was contacted by hundreds of people who had lost loved ones in mass shootings.

'I call us the family of gun-violence survivors,' she says. 'Unfortunately, our family keeps growing every day.'

Ben Fogle and Sara Cox's countdown of the nation's favourite pooches

Love me, love my dog

NEW ANIMALS

Britain's Favourite Dogs: Top 100
Tuesday, ITV HD, 7.30pm

As a nation, we're potty about dogs – one in four of us share our homes with a canine companion. And when it comes to choosing a pet pooch, there's a staggering variety to choose from, with The Kennel Club currently recognising 217 different pedigree breeds. But which are Britain's favourites?

All will be revealed as dog lovers Ben Fogle and Sara Cox offer their countdown of the nation's top 100 dogs. Along the way they'll be meeting some doting celebrity dog owners who'll be putting the case for their own breed of pooch.

We caught up with some of the smitten stars who appear in the programme to find out why they think their precious pooches are the top dogs…

MICHAEL BALL
Ollie the Tibetan terrier
'I was first introduced to Tibetans by my other half, Cathy,' says the 55-year-old singer. 'What I love about them is that they're all different – they all have their own personalities. They're bright, wilful, funny and beautiful. Ollie is 10 and he's very devoted to me.'

GOK WAN
Dolly the French bulldog
'I needed a dog to get my fat behind off the sofa!' laughs the 43-year-old fashion guru. 'I pretend to the entire world that Dolly loves me, but she is so independent. She's the only dog in the world that dislikes its owner. But I couldn't love her any more. She is one of my best friends and I adore her.'

Monty Don's Paradise Gardens
Friday, BBC2 HD, 9pm

After series on French and Italian gardens, Monty Don goes further afield for his latest horticultural travelogue as he visits gardens in Andalusia, Turkey and Iran in a two-part series that explains how 'the root of all gardening as we know it stems from Islamic gardens'.

PHILLIP SCHOFIELD AND HOLLY WILLOUGHBY
Luna the labradoodle
'Luna has a calming effect on the guests,' says Schofield about Luna, whose training as a guide dog has been followed on This Morning. 'If they're a little bit nervous and it's Luna's day on the show, it takes their mind off the chat.'

LOUIS SMITH
Luna the husky
'Luna just wants to play and it's hard to tire her out,' says the 28-year-old gymnast, who teams up with Luna and some other huskies for dog sled racing. 'I go rollerblading with her and she'll look tired, but as soon as I get her back to the house she goes mad!'

GERI HALLIWELL
Hugo the Airedale terrier
'I didn't know much about Airedales, and I was a little bit scared because they're bigger than what I'm used to,' says the former Spice Girl. 'He was a bit grumpy when I first met him, so I tried to befriend him with love. He's become my friend.'

Convicted killer Trevor Hardy

NEW CRIME

Britain's Forgotten Serial Killer: Trevor Hardy

Sunday, CI HD, 10pm

Between December 1974 and March 1976, Trevor Hardy killed three teenage girls and sparked a huge manhunt in the Manchester area.

The crimes were committed in such a brutal and sadistic fashion that, had it not been for the press coverage given to the Yorkshire Ripper, who was still at large, Hardy would have become known as one of Britain's most notorious serial killers.

Janet Lesley Stewart

Wanda Skala

Sharon Mosoph

FAMILY HORROR

His crimes not only devastated the lives of his victims' families but also that of his brother Colin, as a new CI documentary reveals.

In 1975, Colin told the police that his brother, Trevor, had confessed to killing Wanda Skala, 17, by hitting her over the head with a brick. But Trevor was released, and went on to stab and strangle 19-year-old Sharon Mosoph the following year.

'After I told the police he was a murderer, they let him go and then he killed again,' says Colin, who features in the programme. 'I went to pieces. I've had to live with that all my life, wondering if I could have done more.'

Trevor, who was dubbed the 'Beast of Manchester', was eventually found guilty of both murders in 1978, as well as the 1974 murder of 15-year-old Janet Lesley Stewart.

MORE MURDER

He was also linked to the brutal killing of 17-year-old Dorothy Leyden in 1971, but was never convicted and spent years in prison writing letters in which he attempted to frame Colin for the crime.

'He got his kicks writing all those letters accusing me and teasing the police,' says Colin. 'I know I didn't kill Dorothy Leyden, but I believe he did.'

When Trevor died in prison in 2012, Colin inherited his brother's letters and documents and has since given them to forensic and legal medicine specialist Dr Jason Payne-James in the hope he can finally prove that Trevor was the man who killed Dorothy.

'There has to be an end,' he says. 'Trevor ruined most of my life, and I can't let him ruin the rest of it.'

Pirates of the Caribbean: Salazar's Revenge

Captain Jack Sparrow's past comes back to haunt him in his latest exuberant escapade

FANTASY ADVENTURE

Friday, Sky Premiere HD, 11.55am & 8pm ★★★

Johnny Depp's rascally pirate captain Jack Sparrow is back, yet again. His groggy-from-too-much-grog shtick is paying ever diminishing returns, so it is probably a good thing his fifth screen adventure sees him playing a largely passive role in the plot.

This time, harking back to the first Pirates film, a younger generation is at the helm of the story. Brenton Thwaites' callow teenage sailor Henry Turner, son of Orlando Bloom's Will Turner and Keira Knightley's Elizabeth Swann (remember them?), is looking to free his father from a watery curse.

Along the way, he throws in his lot with Kaya Scodelario's Carina Smyth, a headstrong, orphaned astronomer who possesses part of the map pointing the way to the mythical Trident of Poseidon, which has the power to break curses. Jack is a party to the quest, but in their way stand Javier Bardem's undead pirate-hunter Captain Salazar ('el matador del mar') and Geoffrey Rush's Captain Barbossa, both of them Jack's sworn foes.

As you might expect, the film is overblown, overloud and overlong (although not nearly so bloated as the previous instalment). Yet there are still moments when the movie is undeniably fun. The sequence in which Jack and his cronies attempt to steal an entire bank (building and all) picks up a rollicking comic momentum, while the episodes involving Bardem's captain and his decomposing crew prickle with ghoulish dread. Shiver me timbers, indeed. 2017, 12, 129MIN

In Dubious Battle

Monday, Sky Premiere HD, 10am & 6pm ★★★

James Franco directs an earnest, only partially successful adaptation of author John Steinbeck's 1936 novel about a fruit pickers' strike in Depression-era California. He also takes the leading role of the coldly calculating communist agitator behind the walkout.

Franco is fine on the details of the strike, but when it comes to charting the moral and emotional journeys the characters take, the movie is all too clumsy.

Yet it is always watchable, thanks in part to a starry cast that includes Nat Wolff, Vincent D'Onofrio, Robert Duvall, Sam Shepard, Ed Harris and Bryan Cranston. Selena Gomez and Josh Hutcherson also feature prominently. 2016, 15, 110MIN

Pelé: Birth of a Legend

Sunday, Sky Premiere HD, 10am & 6.10pm ★★

As its title suggests, this sporting biopic focuses on the Brazilian football legend's early life, covering the eight years that took him from scrappy slum kid in a São Paulo favela to 17-year-old star of the 1958 World Cup in Sweden.

A rousing tale of underdog achievement, by any measure, but the telling here is overly mushy. Brazilian musician Seu Jorge, however, brings great dignity to the role of Pelé's janitor father. 2015, PG, 102MIN

TEASER ANSWER MAN OF TAI CHI

IN ASSOCIATION WITH TAKE FIVE

Robbed by scammers

MAIN PICTURE POSED BY MODEL

Laurie had no idea criminals were splashing out using her credit card

Never one to overspend, yoga teacher Laurie McAllister, 26, has always thought of herself as being good with money. For years, she even resisted the lure of having a credit card to avoid the temptation of impulse buys.

But eventually she decided to apply for one – and was pleased to be accepted straight away. Laurie knew a good credit score could make all the difference if she wanted to apply for a loan or mortgage in the future, so she was determined to stay within her limit and pay her bills on time.

What she never anticipated was becoming a victim of financial fraud. But when Laurie fell for an email scam, criminals were able to use her card to finance their lifestyle. We asked Laurie to explain what happened – and how we can all avoid similar scams…

Tell us about the email fraud.
It looked like a genuine email from my card provider, so I opened it without a second thought. It said they wanted to increase my credit limit, which I assumed meant my credit score was improving.

How did they persuade you to give your card details?
There was a link in the email, to click on to confirm my financial details. It said I had to do this before my credit limit was raised.

So you clicked on the email link?
Yes – it took me to what I thought was the credit card provider's website. I had to enter personal and financial details including my name, card number, security code and expiry date. I typed them all in, left the website and assumed my credit limit would be raised afterwards.

How long was it before you realised something was wrong?
I hardly used the card, so I didn't check my statement for another three weeks. When I did, I was horrified to see I owed over £500 – money I knew I hadn't spent.

What had the card been used for?
Mostly takeaways and travel cards. The fraudsters had been eating well and getting around town at my expense! But because the activity wasn't unusual, the bank wasn't alerted to a potential fraud.

Were you refunded?
Thankfully yes – I contacted the credit card provider's fraud line. They confirmed the email I'd originally received was a fake.

Any advice for us?
I was lucky to get the money back, but I'm now extremely cautious if I'm asked for personal or financial details, and I'll never click on an email link again. Don't let scammers get hold of your info!

TAKE FIVE TO STOP FRAUD

1 A genuine bank or organisation will never contact you out of the blue to ask for your PIN, full password or to move money to another account. Only give out your personal or financial details to use a service that you have given your consent to, that you trust, and you are expecting to be contacted by.

2 If you feel you're being rushed or pressured into making decisions, take five to remind yourself of this simple phrase: 'My money? My info? I don't think so.'

3 These days, sophisticated technology means scammers can make any number appear on your phone handset, or even make an email look as though it's following a previous conversation. Don't assume that this means it's genuine.

4 Don't click on links in any unsolicited emails or texts. Buying online? Type the website address straight into your browser, rather than clicking on an email link or pop-up.

5 Install the latest software and app updates – they contain vital security updates to help protect your devices from cyber criminals.

PREMIERE (Available from Mon) Nicholas Hoult's expat American chancer falls foul of Anthony Hopkins' ruthless German crook when he tries to hijack a drug shipment to raise funds for a kidney transplant for his stricken girlfriend (Felicity Jones). With tricky flashbacks and dodgy accents throwing sand in the engine, this car-chase thriller stutters and sputters a fair bit before it gets going. 12, 95MIN

HORROR THRILLER PREMIERE

Available from Monday ★★★

Sex ●●● Violence ●●● Language ●●●

A spirited bunch of misfit teenage kids – including Jaeden Lieberher, Jeremy Ray Taylor, Jack Dylan Grazer and Sophia Lillis – strive to defeat the diabolical killer clown (Bill Skarsgård) menacing their small New England town in this supernatural horror thriller. Based on Stephen King's 1986 novel, the film is better at the tale's teen-bonding bits than its scary ones, but the young cast are fabulous. 2017, 15, 135MIN

Detroit

Kathryn Bigelow's incendiary fact-based drama thrusts us into the midst of the Detroit riots of 1967. Mixing archive footage and searing reconstructions, she immerses us in the fury, terror and confusion raging across the city. Amid an excellent cast, John Boyega is quietly charismatic as an anguished security guard caught up in the crisis, while Will Poulter oozes malevolence as a rogue cop. 15, 143MIN

Dunkirk

Christopher Nolan's immersive epic about the Dunkirk evacuation plunges us straight into the action as the Allies race to rescue their troops from the beaches of 1940 France. The film interweaves plot lines involving Mark Rylance, Fionn Whitehead, Kenneth Branagh and even Harry Styles, conveying the panic, terror, endurance and resolve of the people involved. 12, 106MIN

The Hitman's Bodyguard

Ryan Reynolds and Samuel L Jackson play chalk 'n' cheese frenemies in this freewheeling action comedy thriller. Reynolds is a professional bodyguard and Jackson is the assassin he must escort from prison to court to give evidence against Gary Oldman's vicious dictator. The film is scattershot, but the stars' odd-couple chemistry keeps the show on the road. 15, 115MIN

PREMIERE (Available from Mon) See review, above. 15, 135MIN

The Limehouse Golem

Bill Nighy plays things straight as a Scotland Yard detective in a lurid but enthralling Victorian mystery thriller based on a 1994 novel by Peter Ackroyd. Set in 1880, the story finds Nighy's copper on the trail of a serial killer in London's East End. Director Juan Carlos Medina does an atmospheric job of conjuring up Victorian London in all its gaslit murk, and the narrative that unfolds is a grisly and thoroughly gripping puzzle. 15, 107MIN

Logan Lucky

An unabashedly scruffy, appealingly laid-back crime comedy starring Channing Tatum, Adam Driver, Riley Keough and Daniel Craig. The caper – a raid on a motor racetrack during the biggest Nascar race of the season – is engaging and the film is stuffed full of casual gags and engaging supporting performances from Katie Holmes, Hilary Swank and Seth MacFarlane. 12, 116MIN

Australian Open

Eurosport expert Annabel Croft previews the first Grand Slam of the tennis season

LIVE TENNIS

Australian Open

From Sunday, Eurosport 1 HD & Eurosport 2 HD

Last year's Australian Open was full of surprises. Roger Federer rolled back the years to win his first Grand Slam since 2012, while Serena Williams won a record 23rd singles title – and was eight weeks pregnant at the time.

Twelve months on, as the action returns to Melbourne Park, some of the biggest men's names are likely to miss the event through injury, leaving Federer as favourite.

Former British No.1 Annabel Croft, now a Eurosport pundit, gives us her guide to the tournament…

THE MEN

A year ago, Roger Federer wasn't on anyone's radar, until he defeated Rafa Nadal in the final to become the second oldest man to win a Grand Slam title in the Open era, after Ken Rosewall. He's now a year older, but with several of his main rivals missing through injury, he could clock up an amazing 20th Grand Slam.

His longevity is amazing. Roger has kept how he trains a secret, and he has played a lot of his career free from injuries. A lot is to do with the flowing way he moves, like a dancer, while he has evolved his game, shortening points and being efficient at the net to reduce the toll on his body.

Grigor Dimitrov

His biggest threats will come from Bulgaria's Grigor Dimitrov, who showed his ability at the ATP World Tour Finals, and Germany's Alexander Zverev, who broke into the top five last year.

THE WOMEN

The women's game is getting more and more open. With four different Grand Slam winners in 2017, it's the most unpredictable period of women's tennis I have ever known, and that makes things exciting.

In the past, you had these big marquee names, like Steffi or Serena, dominating the sport, and they were feared by the rest. But now, pretty much anyone in the top 20 believes they can win.

That's particularly true at Melbourne Park this year where the women's singles line-up – like the men's – has been hit by a spate of withdrawals and players racing to get fit in time. Both Wimbledon champion Garbiñe Muguruza and British No1 Johanna Konta will be hoping to be back in action after retiring from the Brisbane International this month.

Konta recently appointed Maria Sharapova's former coach Michael Joyce and has been working hard to prepare for Melbourne. Watch this space…

The Masters

From Sunday, BBC2 HD & Eurosport 2 HD

Reigning champion Ronnie O'Sullivan begins the defence of his title against Marco Fu as The Rocket sets his sights on an eighth Masters at Alexandra Palace. After winning the UK Championship in December, the 42-year-old is now level with Stephen Hendry's 18 'Triple Crown' titles of the World, UK and Masters events.

Meanwhile, world number one Mark Selby starts against Mark Williams, while John Higgins plays fellow Scot, debutant Anthony McGill.

Australia v England: ODIs

Saturday, BT Sport 1 HD, 3am

After a thoroughly miserable Ashes, England will hope for better fortunes in the five-match one-day international series that begins in Melbourne on Sunday, followed by the second ODI at the Gabba, Brisbane, on Friday.

The series will see the inclusion of batsman Dawid Malan to replace Ben Stokes, who has not been in action for England since September after he was declared unavailable for international selection following a fracas outside a nightclub in Bristol.

Saturday, BBC1 HD, 1.15pm

Holyrood Park is the setting for the annual curtain-raiser to the athletics season as teams from Great Britain, Europe and the USA go head-to-head.

Home favourite and double European indoor champion Laura Muir will compete in the mixed team relay event over 4km as she targets a fourth straight relay victory, while Ben Connor, who finished sixth in the European senior men's race in Slovakia in December, will lead the senior GB men's team.

Matthew Goode and Teresa Palmer as Matthew and Diana

Matthew Goode and Teresa Palmer play a vampire and a witch in a romantic fantasy

A Discovery of Witches

Here's a look at Matthew Goode and Teresa Palmer in their ambitious new fantasy drama A Discovery of Witches airing on Sky One later in 2018.

The series, based on Deborah Harkness' 2011 novel and set against a backdrop of Oxford University, stars Goode as geneticist and secret vampire Matthew Clairmont.

He becomes involved in a complex and dangerous romance with history professor – and secret witch – Diana Bishop (Palmer) when they work together to learn more about a mysterious manuscript found in the university's Bodleian Library.

'Teresa and Matthew perfectly capture my characters. I'm so excited by the casting and how they will bring the books to life,' says Harkness, who is also an executive producer on the series.

Alex Kingston features as Diana's powerful aunt and fellow witch Sarah Bishop, while Lindsay Duncan is Matthew's mother, Ysabeau de Clermont, a vampire who loathes witches. Louise Brealey, Trevor Eve, Aisling Loftus and Sorcha Cusack co-star.

Standard Subscription rates (1 year): UK £120.60, Europe/Eire €277.50, USA $361.94, Rest of World £237.48. For enquiries, contact TV&Satellite Week Subscriptions on 0330 333 1113, TV&Satellite Week Subscriptions, FREEPOST Time Inc., or e-mail help@magazinesdirect.com.

IN PRODUCTION...

Good Omens

Jon Hamm is on angelic form in a new shot from Good Omens. The 2019 Amazon Prime Video/BBC2 fantasy is based on Neil Gaiman and Terry Pratchett's novel and sees Hamm as Archangel Gabriel, who joins forces with an angel (Michael Sheen) and a demon (David Tennant) to save the world.

'Gabriel is tall, good-looking, charismatic, and impeccably dressed,' says Gaiman. 'Jon is all of these things without even having to act!'

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Will Smith

The Bright star will present National Geographic's One Strange Rock in which astronauts tell the story of life on Earth from their perspective of viewing the planet from space.

Tom Cullen

The Downton Abbey star will next be seen in FOX's medieval drama Knightfall. He plays a Crusades veteran, who becomes obsessed with finding the Holy Grail.

Joel Fry

The Plebs actor is currently filming BBC1's Requiem. The six-part thriller follows a group of friends as they investigate a Welsh town where a child went missing.

Coming Back

After violently dispatching a variety of villains in season one, Jon Bernthal will be returning as tough-guy vigilante Frank Castle to take down more bad guys in a second series of The Punisher on Netflix.

Next week On Sale Tuesday 16 January

Black Lightning

Cress Williams stars as a retired superhero, who is forced back into action in the Netflix adventure.

Call the Midwife

It's 1963, and Leonie Elliott settles into Nonnatus House as new midwife Lucille on BBC1.

Robbie Coltrane's Critical Evidence

The Cracker actor explores baffling murder cases on CI.

Inside No.9

Nicola Walker guest stars in this week's tale in the BBC2 black comedy anthology.

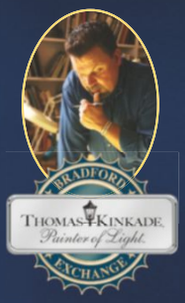
Tree Lights Change Colour!

Listen! Plays a medley of 8 caroling classics

It Lights Up

First-ever Thomas Kinkade 'Holiday Sparkle'



COLOUR-CHANGING FIBRE-OPTIC TREE with Music and Motion

The exciting effects of colourful fibre-optic lights usher in a brand new look for holiday tree lights, showcased for the first time ever on an all-new tabletop tree from Thomas Kinkade and The Bradford Exchange. Inspired by the shifting colours of the celestial lights that dazzle in the northern sky, the Thomas Kinkade 'Holiday Sparkle' Tabletop Tree is adorned with fibre-optics which pulsate with alternating colours of bright blues, reds, and greens to create a mesmerising effect.

This all-new tree design stands 18 inches tall and is individually crafted from materials that recreate the natural look of real pine, detailed down to the needle tips. Sprinkled with glittering snow, the tree is adorned with more than 20 shiny silver ornaments which reflect the shimmering light provided by hundreds of fibre optics. At the touch of a button the lights dance with brilliant colours, in contrast to the single, illuminated star which shines at the top. More lights shine from within the sculpted Thomas Kinkade holiday village that forms the base of the tree, which is circled by a moving train as a medley of 8 favourite Christmas carols begins to play.
